Fundamentals of Change Management

How to Design and Influence Change at Work
Three-Day Workshop

Atlanta, Georgia
March 6-8, 2017

To do your job effectively, do you need other people to change the way they work – their processes, behaviors, priorities, attitudes, and ultimately, their results? Fundamentals of Change Management is an essential course for those who need to influence change at work.

No matter what type of project you're implementing, this 3-day workshop will equip you with the steps, tools, and skills to facilitate the adoption of change in your organization.

Who should attend?

The methodology taught in this course was developed for people working within organizations who are responsible for implementing change without having much authority. While these change practitioners go by many titles, they have one thing in common: in order to achieve the desired results, other people in the organization will need to change the way they work.

You will benefit from attending this workshop if:

- You are planning a project, and want to figure out how to get people to adopt the new way of doing things.
- You're stuck in the middle of a project that isn't going as well as you hoped.
- You're a professional who recognizes that people will make or break your ability to get things done.
- You seek practical tools to build the change capability of your organization.
- You're a new or experienced change practitioner looking to expand your toolkit, increase your influence, and qualify for the ACMP® Certified Change Management Professional (CCMP™) accreditation.
